The Cure of "Lumpy Jaw" and More Thorough Inspection of Pork.

Chicago, July 28.—[By the Associated Press.] Secretary Rusk is in the city in connection with preparations to treat on a large scale the disease known as "lumpy jaw." It has recently been treated successfully by the administration internally of iodide of potassium. One of the inspectors of the Bureau of Animal Industry recently made a successful experiment and the Secretary expects to have the treatment tested on 200 head of cattle affected with lumpy jaw to settle the question as to the value of the remedy. It is given in doses of from one to three drachms, dissolved in a pint of water, and is best administered before feeding, and the dose should vary according to the size and weight of the cattle. The treatment can be applied without danger by any farmer.

The Secretary is also interested in extending the microscopic investigation of pork, as the demand for inspected pork is continually increasing, and it brings about half a cent per pound more in American and British markets than the uninspected. The packing season begins in October, and the Secretary desires to have his force in condition to inspect a much larger number of carcasses than they did last season. The markets of Denmark, Germany, Austria, France, Spain and Italy have been opened to inspected pork during the past year, and it requires a large quantity to supply them. It is estimated that the farmers of the country will receive 1 cent a pound more for hogs ceive I cent a pound more for hogs marketed this year than if there were no inspection. The Secretary is greatly encouraged by the marked success which has attended the inspection.

Long Terms of Imprisonment given to French Anarchists

ond Series of Wagner Perfe ances Begun at Bayreuth-An Alarming View of the Cholera Epidemic-Foreign Notes,

New York, July 28.—[By the Associated Press.] A special cablegram from Kissingen says that Herbert Bismarck, in an interview authorized by his father, stated that if the Kaiser was not surrounded by persons whose busi-ness in life is to keep the Kaiser and Prince apart, there would have been a reconciliation long ago. Count Herbert spoke in derision of the statement that his father expected the Kaiser to take the first step toward a reconciliation. "My father is always prepared to make advances," he said, "in keeping with his dignity. In fact, there was no need to take any introductory steps, after the Kaiser's telegram congratulating me on my engagement. Then everything pois ed to a settlement of difficulties, but ist afterward followed the greatest musult my father ever received in his life, namely, the social boycott at Vienna, declared by authority from Berlin."

Herbert displayed great feeling as he spoke of this episode.

Self-Collected Brides

[Chicago Journal.]

It is a surprising fact that the bride is almost always the one to bear the trials and embarrassments of the wedtrials and embarrassments of the wedding ceremony with the most fortitude and sang froid, despite the fact that she invariably is the focus for every eye. A shy, modest-looking little creature, robed in white, will stand perfectly erect, looking the minister calmly and squarely in the eye, without for an instant losing her self-poise, while the big, blunt, six-footer of a bridegroom by her side is pale and nervous and trembling.

The bride very seldom makes any mistake, either during the ceremony or at the still more trying reception after-ward; while the man is almost sure to put both feet in it, and then flounder about in despair, until his better half comes to his rescue and gives him the first chance to appreciate the advan-tages of having some one to take care of him. During the ceremony the chances for During the ceremony the chances for the groom to make mistakes are not many. The most common one is for him to get names mixed up. At a recent wedding at the most fashionable church below Twenty-third street the groom calmly announced: "I, Annie, take thee, Harold, to be my lawful wedded wife." The bridal party, who were the only ones who heard it, were convulsed, and even the stalwart young minister could not repress twinkle in his eyes.

Another much rattled young man, when asked if he took the young woman to be his wedded wife, stared nonplused at the minister for fully ten seconds, then asked blankly: "Beg pardon, were you speaking to me?" Still an-other, when handed the ring, instead of passing it along, began nervously trying to put it on his own finger, and was only aroused by a sharp little pinch.

But most of the small contretemps in cident to a wedding can be successfuly hidden from the knowledge of the guests, and it is not until the bridegroom is let loose at the wedding recep-tion that the bride really begins to get fidgety four fearhier will do something dreadful," a fear which is often real-

Another essential cause of increase of dry land that might be added is the decrease of the ocean itself in consequence of infiltrations of water through the crust of the earth, which is a kind of porous mass, into which the liquid elements percolates by innumerable elements percolates by innumerable fissures, taking possession of the depths and directing itself slowly toward the center, as the internal fire diminishes and the crusts crack open in consequence. It is understood that the activity of volcanes and many earthtivity of volcanoes and many earth tivity of volcanoes and many earth-quakes is largely due to this inevitable penetration of the water, which inter-nal heat transforms into vapor under pressure. Some geologists think that the primitive ocean has already dimin-ished in this way one-fiftieth of its vol-ume. The water is all destined to dis-appear from the surface of the globe by being absorbed by the subterranean rocks, with which it will form chemical combinations. The heavenly spheres exhibit sufficiently striking examples of such an evolution. The planet Mars shows what will become of the earth in shows what will become of the earth in some thousands of centuries. Its seas are only shallow Mediterraneans of less surface than the continents, and these do not appear to be very high; and in the appearance of the moon, all cracked and dried up, we have a view of the final state of the earth—for the absorp-tion of the water by the solid nucleus will be followed by that of the atmosphere.

Fruit Trains Eastward on Passenger Time.

[Ontario Observer.]

The policy of running fruit trains to the East on passenger time has given to the shipment of green fruits such an impetus as to cause the canners of California to call a halt in their industry, prices having advanced to a point which renders the purchasing of fruit for such purposes unprofitable. The Observer has long contended that in the marketing of our fruit in a fresh state lay the greatest profits to the producer, and we are glad to note that this fact is being so tangibly demonstrated this season. California's peerless fruits have an enviable celebrity throughout the world, and if placed on the market in good condition will bring larger prices than any fruits produced. By the aid of coid storage facilities and rapid transportation the green fruit shipments from this State could be made to assume enormous proportions.

Already it is practicable to land our green fruit in England in twelve days, and this time can, and doubtless with be considerably reduced. Within a few years, it is safe to say, that our green fruit shipments will exceed the present fruit crop of the State. With such prospects there should, and probably will be, a large increase in the acreage of deciduous fruit trees in the near future.

Prof A. J. Cook, of the Michigan Agricultural College, speaking of a balletin issued last year advising the use of the kerosene emission to kill lice on cattle, horses and hogs, and ticks on them.

cattle, horses and hogs, and ticks on sheep, says:

We had then only used it on cattle lice. We have since used it on horses, hogs and sheep, and are fully persuaded that it ranks first in effectiveness and cheapness as a specific in all such cases. The many letters we have received the past summer relating to the emulsion, the more timely date and the exceeding importance of the matter, make us repeat with emphasis the advice we then gave. Lice and ticks are very common in nearly, if not all, parts the flocks and berds of the States. They claim no mean per cent of the the flocks and herds of the States. They claim no mean per cent of the strength and vitality of our animals. Well-fed animals are not always sleek and fine. The cause is not infrequently found in the tormenting, blood-sucking louse. Tobacco decoction, crude petroleum and the various commercial diseases the second of the commercial diseases.

troleum and the various commercial dips are less efficient, not so wholesome and more costly.

Kerosene emulsion not only kills all the lice, but also nits or eggs, and if the stable be well sprinkled with the emulsion at the same time the animals are treated, the application will need to be repeated only at rare intervals. Again, brushing the animals thoroughly with soap wash seems to cleanse the skin and make the coat more bright and glossy. Without any question, the kerosene Without any question, the kerosene emulsion barrel should find a place in every stockman's barn.

The soft soap emulsion is best for this.

The more liquid nature makes it easy of manipulation in cold weather, and the large quantity of soap is very cleansing and wholesome. To apply, we use a common brush in case of cattle, horse or hogs, and in case of sheep, dip the animal right into the warm diluted emulsion. The cost of material for an average cow is about 8 cents, and the time required for treatment less than

J. C. Sommer, manager of the Cuca-monga winery, was in town Tuesday. The vineyard of 340 acres, of which Mr. The vineyard of 340 acres, of which Mr. Sommer has charge, is perhaps the oldest in Southern California. Sixty years ago Spaniards crushed into wine grapes grown in this vineyard. Though the oldest vines were extirpated two years ago, there are now in the vineyard fifty acres of vines which are forty years old. At the winery 125,000 gallons of wine and brandy were made annually. Cucamonga wine is of superior quality and is known wherever domestic wines are used. Last week two carloads were shipped East.—[Ontario Observer.

Judge Wade Renders Two Important Decisions,

The Court Finds for the Defendant in the Freeman Kiefer Case, Thereby Sustaining the Conclusions of the Jury.

an Old Lady Adjudged Insane and Sent to Napa—Judge Shaw Would Not Enjoin the City—Admitted to he case of Dan Freeman vs. Mrs. Allie Kiefer, an action to foreclose a vendor's lien on a tract of land at Inglewood, which defendant in her cross-complaint alleged she was induced to purchase by neans of false representations on the part of the Centinela-Inglewood Land part of the Centinela-Inglewood Land and Water Company, in accordance with the following opinion:

This is an action brought to foreclose a vendor's lien upon certain lands sold by plaintiff's assignor to defendant. To the complaint defendant answers and files a cross-complaint setting up an equitable defense and an equitable cause of action by the cross-complaint. The special issues thus raised being submitted to a jury in the former of interrogatories, upward of one hundred in number, all of which have been answered by the jury, it remains for the Court in adopting the special verdict as the findings of the Court to order the judgment which follows as a conclusion of laws.

ctal verdict as the findings of the Court to order the judgment which follows as a conclusion of laws.

It is true think these conclusions of fact arrived at by the jury might be set aside in the discretion of the Court for the reason that they are merely advisory, but when as in this case they are supported by evidence tending to prove them, and the answers to the unnecessarily voluminous mass of questions are intelligent and intelligible, showing that the jury meant what they said, it would be assuming too much for the Court to disregard them after the time and expense employed in this mode of trial. It is true that some of the answers are seemingly irresponsive, and whenever the questions are of sumclent materiality to render the answers essential, the duty devolves upon the court to make its own findings. But when there is not sufficient evidence, or any evidence, upon which the jury could find the fact, the question and answer shall both be disregarded. Thus, to interogatory No. 15, as submitted at the request of plaintiff, the answer is, "Not to our knowledge." The question is whether a certain distance between two points could be ascertained by reference to certain maps. To answer this question it would be necessary for the jury to know whether the map was made from accurate surveys. Question 24, same series, is as to the intentions of the Centinela-Inglewood Land Company when it "made the representations or promises as to the improvements to the defendant" in respect to carrying out and fulfilling the same. As the jury were unable to answer, the Court finds that it intended to carry out others conditionally, and it did not intend to carry out the removements as to same. As the jury were unable to answer, the Court finds that it intended to carry out and fulfill some of them; it intended to carry out and fulfill some of them; it intended to carry out others conditionally, and it did not intend to carry out the promises as to the "University" or "College of Applied Sciences" at all. Question 30 of the same series is unanswerable by the Court, and was probably equally beyond the ken of the jury, from the evidence.

The contract between plaintiff, on the one part and Silent and McFarland on the other, which passed by assignment from Silent and McFarland to the Centinela. Inglewood Land Company with the consent of the plaintiff, was nothing more than a contract of agency, whereby, prior to the making of this contract, the Centinela Inglewood Land Company became the agent of the plaintiff, with all the powers conferred by the original contract. Its acts, and the acts of the sub-agents became so far as third parties are concerned, the acts of plaintiff. And yet the corporation, having taken the notes, and made the contract with Defendant Keifer in its own name, was a proper if not a necessary party to this action.

The final conclusion arrived at is that on the findings herein the cross-complainant is entitled to judgment that the notes still held by plaintiff, and the contract, be cancelled and for the return of the money paid by cross complainant as prayed in the cross-complain and for her costs; also for the amount paid for taxes on the land.

the amount paid for taxes on the land. The judgment for the money should run against plaintiff, who will be entitled to receive the deed of the premises, deposited by Defendant Kiefer with the Clerk of the Court, and it is so ordered.

WILLIAM P. WADE, Judge.

THEY WERE LIABLE. Although presumed to be enjoying his vacation, Judge Wade evidently desires to relieve his mind of all matters relating to his office before abandoning himself to the pursuit of pleasure, for he also rendered his decision in the case etc., of another defendant against whom default has been taken for want of an answer.

The parties answering and making these defenses are purchasers from the original mortgagors who assumed and agreed to pay the indebtedness of their grantors, the original debtors. It is well established in this State that when property is conveyed by a mortgagor subject to the mortgage, and the conveyance contains a stipulation that the purchaser or purchasers assume the mortgage debt and agreeto pay it, such an agreement may be enforced against the grantee, provided that at the commencement of the action this agreement remains in full force between the mortgagor and his grantee. It is not a contract made for the benefit of a third person, but is a contract by the grantee with his grantor for the latter's indemnity, and the mortgagor avails himself of it under the principle of subrogation. Representing the mortgagor, he is subrogated to all the latter's remedies.

The parties answering and setting up this defense did not sustain toward the

The parties answering and setting up this defense did not sustain toward the this defense did not sustain toward the parties released the relation of guarantors or sureties. They were original obligors and were jointly and severally liable for the debts assumed by them, including the counsel fee of $100, hence the release of a portion of them did not release the others. When the action was commenced they had never been released from their contract with the mortgagor, hence they are still liable.

The question raised by the defendants the debts assumed by them, including the counsel fee of $100, hence the release of a portion of them did not release the others. When the action was commenced they had never been released from their contract with the mortgagor, hence they are still liable.

The question raised by the defendants as to the failure of proof of the allegations of incompetency, etc., of defendant Harris cannot avail those by whom such defenses made.

Plaintiff is entitled to judgment as prayed in the complaint, on findings to be prepared and submitted by his counsel, and it is so ordered.

WILLIAM P. WADZ, Judge.

THE CITY WAS NOT ENJOINED.

It was ordered by Judge Shaw yesterday afternoon that the application of the Vernon Irrigating Company for a temporary restraining order against the defendants H. M. Ames and W. C. James be granted; and that during the pendency of this action, and until further order of the Court, the said Ames and James be enjoined and restrained from diverting water from the Los Angeles River in excess of 100 inches, measured under a 4-inch pressure for twenty-four hours once every thirty days, provided, however, that said defendants Ames and James may take the surplus of water in said river, if any there be, after the plaintiff has taken therefrom 750 inches of water, flowing incessantly and measured under a 4-inch pressure.

The outbound passenger train on the Terminal also ran over the hose exciting the righteous wrath of the firemen and making another delay of nearly a quarter of an hour.

Wherever the Santa Fé has extended its lines, small productive rural homes have replaced the great, pare, sheep ranches of the past.

It is claimed by some advocates of the existing system that high prices of land stand in the way of the development of the State. This is only true to a very limited extent. There is plenty of cheap land yet to be had-cheap in consider ation of what it can be made to yield provided the transportation company es not exact three-fourths of the profits for its share. How can such an argument be made to apply to Southern California? Are our lands lower in price than those in the central and orthern portions of the State? And vet there are plenty of willing purchasers at the prices asked. The argument of high prices for land will not hold. Give buyers a chance to mar ket their products at a profit there will be no complaint and about prices of land. HERE is some exceedingly straight talk from the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette: "The House (two-thirds Demcratic) has been in session more than half a year. This House is the boasted result of Mr. Cleveland's campaign of education. What has it done for tariff reform? Like a sheep-killing dog, it has wool in its teeth. It has bitten and scratched a little here and there. As or any systematic revision of the Mo Kinley law it has not been attempted. The Democratic party is not capable of the work. Mr. Cleveland is as incom petent to draw a tariff reform bill as he was six years ago, when he confessed he did not know a thing about it. The House has not dared to touch the great sugar question. There is talk about war tax. Is free sugar war taxed? Mr. Springer has figured out that free sugar very costly. Well, does he propose to impose a tax? No Democrat has answered the question what he cares to do with sugar. Mr. Cleveland has not done it." The exact language attributed to Mr. Cleveland when he was asked, in 1888, his opinion of the tariff was this, which is not from the encyclopædia: "I don't know anything about the damned thing!" This was the condition of Mr. Cleveland's mind then, and not a theory confronting us, nor yet "a lamned barren ideality," as that unique as follows;

The Republican party of California has always stood for the material development of the State, and, believing that increased facilities of transportation by water and by rail will conduce to that end, it demands from the general Government the early completion under Government control, of the Nicarayua Canal and the liberal expending Buckeye statesman, Fog Horn Allen, would say.

Col. D. B. HENDERSON, the ables Representative from Iowa, and withal a calm and deliberate political observer, has said to a Washington correspondent: "Iowa is in no sense a doubtful State. Harrison will have 11,000 ma. jority in Iowa. That is a small majorty compared with our old-time vote but Iowa has populated North and South Dakota, Montana and Idaho with young, ambitious, energetic blood. We have now five Republicans and six Democrats in the House, but in the next Con gress will have nine Republicans and only two Democrats. You need not worry about this year." This is pretty decisive authority to put against the wild and foolish claims of the Democrats in regard to that State.

THE TIMES is sincerely apprehensive that if the Sixth District Republican Congress Convention, which meets at Santa Cruz today, makes the mistake o nominating Hervey Lindley, it will be the means of needlessly losing the district a Republican Congress-man, and of jeopardizing the legislative ticket in three Assembly districts of Los Angeles county, esides possibly losing the Republican electoral ticket in the State. And yet the madness of the hour may prevai where coolness, good sense and political sagacity should have sway. The machine is an unthinking device, and its component parts act too often upon the

In the convention only two things occurred worth mentioning; one was when Chairman Wilson asked if there was any question as to the eligibility of George R. Flint, named as a delegate from the eighth, and that statesman arose and said with unction, "No, Mr. Chairman, none whatever."

The boys were so glad to see the handsome Webber that they elected him a delegate to the State convention. This was done in the ward convention, but when the names of the State delegates were presented to the general convention, some of the delegates from the eighth concluded it looked a little "raw" to elect Webber, and accordingly asked the chairman for the privilege of changing the vote of the delegation from Webber to A. Rivera. This was about to be done when a portly, fine-looking gentleman, who was unknown to the chairman, arose and said: "Mr. President, I hold Mr. Rivera's proxy and represent him in this convention. The Chautauqua Assembly at Long Beach closed yesterday after a ten lays' session. The managers are jubi-ant over its success. The receipts days' session. have far outstripped the expenses, and have far outstripped the expenses, and the interest in the programme kept up to its close. Yesterday was Recogni-tion day, and at 10 o'clock the proces-sion of Chautauquans formed in the grove adjacent to the pavilion. A band of music headed the line, which moved toward the pavilion at 10:15. moved toward the pavilion at 10:15. entering from the rear and passing through the arches which had been erected. In the last arch of cypress, thickly studded with pale pink dahlias, hung the magic gate outlined in golden sunflowers and dahlias. Above it was the year, "1892." As the class passed the year, "1892." As the class passed down the aisle, led by Superintendent Winbigler and President S. H. Weller, D.D., and followed by the post-graduates, the gate swung open and the class of six ladies passed through and took their seats upon the platform, which was profusely decorated with beautiful floral pieces. As easel twined with ivy held a tablet of white marguerites with the letters "C.L.S.C., '92," worked out in scarlet upon it. A pyramid of snowy in scarlet upon it. A pyramid of snowy dahlias rose from one side, and harps, tyres, wreaths and other pieces hung at the rear. At the back of the platform against an asure background shone in golden letters the class name and motto, "The Columbia. Seek and ye shall obtain."

When the members of the class wer seated, the responsive service was read alternately by the superintendent and the class and audience, the Chautauqua songs were sung, the class poem read by Mrs. Abbie Lee Button, one of the graduates, and then the speaker of the occasion, Rev. J. B. Silcox of Sacra mento, was introduced. After some mento, was introduced. After some witty preliminaries he dropped into a sober strain and eulogized the Chautau-qua movement as an unmixed blessing to thousands of homes the whole world round. "We highly prize and richly repay in gold," he said, "the man who invents or discovers something to add to our material comfort, but we are not so ready to build a monument in praise of the man who invents or discovers something for our mental or intellectual something for our mental or intellectual development. And yet we Americans are a sort of mutual admiration society on literary lines. We think we sit on the Shasta summits of wisdom. Every two years we skim the cream off our literary milk and send it to Sacramento [Laughter.] Sometimes the scum rises to the top and then we send that to the Capital. [Applause.] And yet, with all this wise and scholarly set of men in Sacramento to enact our laws, it pays better to sell beer there than books. One miserable little bookstore exists and a score of beer shops prosper. Chautauqua, I take it, is attempting to solve this problem of general education. It creates and develops a love of literature; it sets the world to reading; it gives opportunity to old folks as well as young. Chautauqua makes people conscious of the powers they possess.

Many great minds go through the world cious of their own ability because no one has ever wakened their dormant powers."

President S. H. Weller presented the class to the Superintendent of instruction, with a few appropriate remarks, and Superintendent Winbigler responded, remarking upon the fact that the class was composed solely of women. "Chautauqua," he said, "has brought busy women into contact with lite ture, and has opened mighty avenu into which they can enter and seek deeper knowledge." After the presentation of diplomas the graduates passed from the platform and out through the golden gate, where they were they were met by a bevy of little golden gate, where they were they were met by a bevy of little who streamed flowers in their mathematics. girls who strewed flowers in their pathway. The members of the class who received diplomas yesterday were: Miss Mary C. Carpenter, Mrs. Harriett E. Hubbard, Mrs. Mary D. Todd, Emma Stewart Walling, Mrs. Abbie L. Button and Miss Buchanan.

At 2:30 p.m. Rev. J. B. Silcox delivered one of the best lectures of the season to an audience which crowded the pavilion to overflowing. His subject was "Grip and Grit," and it was full to the brim of terse, bright thoughts expressed in such a droll way as to keep the audience in a state of great merriment most of the time. The lecture, withal, was full of practical commonsense and wise suggestions. Mr. Silcox is one of the wittiest and wisest speakers who has appeared on the Chautauers who has appeared on the Chautau-qua platform this year, and his name will always be a welcome one on the programme hereafter.

The annual business meeting con

A committee was to be appointed to incorporate the Chautauqua Assembly of Southern California, appoint directors and elect officers for the ensuing year, which was done at a late adjourned meeting, and at the hour of going to press their names cannot be given, but will appear in a later issue. THE CONCERT.

The concert last evening, which narked the closing exercises of the Chautauqua Assembly, was another de-cided success and won additional laureis for those participating. The crowd was packed about the doors long before they for those participating. The crowd was packed about the doors long before they were opened and at the appointed hour filed into the pavilion, soon filling every inch of space. The large choir was present and assisted in the several choruses. Miss Webster opened the concert by rendering the plano solo, which gave her the first prize in the contest. The full chorus then sang "I must not tarry here" by Schuman, which gave evidence of the fine training received, as in those that followed, "All among the barler," "The Boat Song," sung for the first time in America.

Miss Fox with sweet contralto voice and Miss Priest with her pure soprano sang their good-bys in several solos—"The Garden of Sleep" and "Robin in the Linden Tree"; then their voices blended in an Italian song as a duet. There is but one Kellogg and he gave "The Mocking Bird," of which the audience seem never to tire and accompanied the soloists in another duet, and the crowd seemed unwilling to give them up at all. Hugo Mansfeldt with his matchless skill gave Beethoven's

"Moonlight Sonata," "Wedding March" by Liszt, and "Hungarian Battle March"

March."

The concert closed with the chorus, "Hearts Feel," Misses Priest and Fox taking the obligato solos. This concert was a continued ovation to the several soloists and they have made many friends.

At the close of the concert resolutions were read expressing thanks to all the officers of the assembly, those who had charge of the decorations, The Times for its reports, also the Breaker of Long Beach, the Southern Pacific and Terminal Railroads for courtesies extended the Chautauquans, and all who helped to make the assembly a success.

AWARD OF PRIZES.

The award of prizes in the Sohmer Grand contest was announced at the beginning of the concert. Prof. Mansfeldt acted as judge for the grand prize, the prodigy prize and the duet prize, while Mr. Kellogg decided the merits of the soloists under 16 years of age. The awards were as follows:

Grand prize, ten contestants—First Myrgarian and the soloists and the soloists under 16 years of age. The awards were as follows:

Grand prize, ten contestants—First, Myr-tie Webster; second, Ethel Stewart. Duet prize, eight contestants—First, An-nie Denby and Grace Duasmore; second, Miss Ada and Aggie Blecht, Los Angeles.

Miss Ada and Aggie Blecht, Los Anggles.

The following letters were read:

This is Cruel.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

It may be a litte cruel to say it, but the Senators, with a few exceptions, who voted to prohibit the restaurants at the World's Fair from serving wine or beer with meals would have been the hardest kickers in the crowd if they had been unable to procure "a little for the stomach's sake" when they visited the show. If they didn't go to the Senate restaurant and drink to the defeat of their own proposition at the close of the vote, then noses and reputation can be no longer relied on. be no longer relied on.

minor league ball field. Time after time he found himself in a hole, but he was equal to every emergency and added fresh laurels to his crown by tacking up a score of 10 to 1, and that one due to the magnanimity of Jimmy Stafford, who considerately kept away from second base when he had a chance to head off a runner there, and the man afterwards scored.

Jack Roach practically won his own game. He simply plugged in a ball that was a puzzler to the best of them. Three times "Terrible Tom" Turner fell before these deceptive shoots, and in every instance he offered at balls that would have been sailing yet had he made connections. O'Brien fell twice and a grand total of nine men were retired by the blond Adonis on strikes. A most scientific exhibition was given by him in the seventh inning, when Carroll opened with a two-bagger that raised a cloud of whitewash dust from the third base foul line. He stole third, and, it looked like a sure tally, but Roach settled down to effective work and struck out Turner and Whitehead, Wilson fouling out to McCauley.

Jack Newman was behind the bat again, and his splendid work was of great value to Roach in imbuing him with the necessary confidence to pitch as he did. Newman did not overlook a single point, and the warm reception he was given indicates that he is still the same old favorite.

All the boys acquitted themselves well: Only one fielding error was recorded against them, and they played the game as though the pennant depended upon the outcome.

Four more were added in the ninth on a two-bagger by Roach, a base on balls to Stafford, singles by Wright, McCauley and Lytle, sacrifices by Tredway and Glenalvin, two stolen bases and an error by O'Brien.

The Colonels barely escaped a shutout. Not until the ninth inning did they make the circuit with a lone tally. O'Brien, first up, was an easy out at first. Carroll walked to first, and Turner hit to McCauley, who had plenty of time to throw out Carroll at second had there been a man there to receive had there been a man there to receive the ball. Whata Monopoly of One Industry Would Be Worth.

[American Cultivator.]

Some Yankee, in the enthusiasm of trade, wished that he had a monopoly on the ice cream business of Hades, but it could hardly be more profitable than the exclusive right to sell pop-corn at the World's Fair. The sum of $250,000 in solid cash has been deposited by twenty-five separate bidders, each placing a certified check for $10,000 as an earnest of his good faith and intention to pop good corn faithfully.

The $75,000 offer was picayuned, and was flatly rejected. Then the twenty-five bidders began to figure, and their bids ranged all the way from 20 per cent. to 62 per cent. of gross receipts for the concession. A ball of uniform size to be sold for five cents was proposed by all the competitors. The 62 per cent. man carried off the prize, and expects to make a fortune out of the 1.9 cents per ball left for him after paying the exposition its 3.1 cent.

The final calculation on the part of the exposition was that the concession will yield $279,000. A little calcution on the part of the Philadelphia Record based on these figures shows that it is expected that 9,000,000 balls of this succulent but thirst-provoking corn will be sold; in other words, that one-sixth of the entire population of the exposition was that the 4,000,000 separate individuals who are expected to attend the show will buy an average of two and one-half ball of pop-corn survyeyor-general to the exposition knows what he is about, but it is hard to believe that 9,000,000 balls, or an average of 50,000 a day, will be sold on the exposition grounds during the 180 days it will be in progress.

WHY RAILS WILL CREEP.

WHY RAILS WILL CREEP.

The Western One on a North and South Line Bound to Do So. (Scientific American.)

The creeping of rails has attracted some attention of late, and while we do not attempt to explain it we offer a point on the fact that on lines running North and South the western rail; that is, this strange movement of the rail toward the South is more marked in one rail than the other on the same track. Furthermore, it has been noticed that on such a line the eastern rail wears out the fastest. Both of these wears out the fastest. Both of these the motion of the earth as it turns from the west toward the east. Motion tends to overcome gravitation. A rapid skater flies over the thin ice without skater files over the thin ice without breaking through, and a train at high speed has been known to leap a broken bridge unharmed.

Momentum overcomes gravitation, and the greater the speed the less weight on the rails. Everything that has free motion is dragged atter the whirling globe, every wind that blows and every tide that moves feels the influence, and our train going north or south is pulled over toward the east, and naturally presses the eastern rail most heavily. The western rail, being relieved of its share of weight, "creeps" more freely and quickly. It is also noticed that the wheels that run on the eastern rail wear out first, and we can but think that this earth motion is the true case. The northest wide of the but think that this earth motion is the true cause. The practical side of this is, that the eastern rail and wheels should be stronger.

How Our Globe's Age is Calculated. How Our Globe's age is Calculated.

The amount of lime salts in water which drains from districts made up of granites and basalts is found by comparison of different analyses to be on an average of about 3.73 parts in 100,000 parts of water. It is further assumed by those who take this mode of reckonby those who take this mode of reckoning the age of the world that the excess areas of igneous rocks, taken on an average throughout all geological time, will bear to the exposures of sedimentary racks a ratio of one to nine. From these and other more complicated data it has been inferred that the elimination of the calcareous matter now found in all the sedimentary strata must have been going on through a period of 600, -000,000 years! This, therefore, represents the minimum age of the world. Geologists also conclude that the formation of the Laurentian, Cambrian and Silurian strata occupied a period of about 200,000,000 years; the red sandstone, the carboniferous and the poecilabout 200,000,000 years; the red sand-stone, the carboniferous and the poecil-itic systems another 200,000,000-years, the remaining 200,000,000 years being taken with the formation of all other strata. Thus we are led to believe that geological time has been enormously in excess of the limits urged by certain well known physicists, and that it has been ample to allow for all the changes which, on the hypothesis of evolution, have occurred in the organic world.

J. T. Sheward,

TE can say to you candidly the trade of this house for the past three weeks has almost doubled the sales of one year ago. Think of it!-the increase has been enormous; there is not one particle of doubt upon this point. It is the greatest gains ever made by any house in any line of business in this city. When the driver sends his horse around the track it is with a cool head, keen perception and a steady nerve; he has but one object, and that is to win the race; what cares he for the other driver or the other horse; "What can I do to win the race" is his only thought; the least excitement on his part the least slackening of the line excites his own animal; it must be a steady pull, keep your horse down to the work, watch carefully his every move, touch him gently, encourage him; keep well on the inside; at the quarter stretch you are neck and neck; the crowd becomes excited; away you go, gaining a little and the crowd begins to cheer, they admire your nerve, they admire your pluck; the other horse has broken his gait; the driver with a cool head and steady nerve begins to rapidly gain and the cheers are with you. The tide has turned as you pass the second quarter; the other horse gets down to work and begins to gain, but with cool head and a glad heart you know by the cheers the crowd have confidence. Your noble animal passes the three-quarter stretch a good length ahead; your anxiety is intense, your judgment good, you give your horse a good word, you know he will do your bidding, and away you go at a furious rate down the home stretch. The cheers are with you again; the excitement is intense, your horse feels the impulse of your judgment and he staid by you and gained the day. The man in business who keeps his head and mind clear and aims for one object only is sure to win. A business must be conducted upon the right principles; every feature must be to win public confidence; when this is once done hold a steady rein and go down the home stretch with a determination to succeed and you will succeed. No attention should be paid to the other horse. To succeed hold the lines steady, keep your mind upon your own animal; let others watch you, but never lose sight of the point you are seeking to gain.

Wonderful::Cures DR. WONG;

713 South Main Street, - - Los Angeles, California.

The above are two fac similes of many REWARDS OF MERIT or DIPLOMAS of PROFES. SIONAL SKILLI which have from time to time been awarded to the CELEBRATED CHINESE PHYSICIAN, DR. WONG, for his superior medical abilities and curative powers.

It has long been customary among the Chinese people when one becomes sick and when repeated attempts to cure him have failed, and he is perhaps given up to die, if, after having been taken to an eminent physician, he be cured of his disease—the curred, too in addition to the regular fee for professional services rendered, makes the physician a present as a token of gratitude for his restoration to health and the prolongation of his life. This present consists usually of a broad plank, presenting much the appearance of a sign-board, filled with characters entirely meaningiess to the average English scholar, but full of meaning to the successful physician and his friends, It is a motto which highly compliments the physician for his great skill in effecting a cure of the disease which once afflicted the donor.

It is not an uncommon thing to see a great number of these COMPLIMENTARY DIPLOMAS advaning the office walls of Chinese physicians in their native country, and indeed a number of the most successful ones in this country are the happy possessors of a few of these high tokens of very superior medical ability.

Society Turns Out to the Christening of Columbia Hill.

And to Celebrate the Sixteenth Birthday of Miss Daggett.

There is Nothing Summery About This Weather.

Tennis on a New Court-Points Abou People You May Know-Brevities and Local Pasadena Items.

Society, young and old, centered yester-day afternoon at the beautiful residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Daggett on Columbia street to celebrate an event of three-fold street to celebrate an event of three-fold importance—the sixteenth birthday of Miss Ruth Daggett, eldest daughter of the family, the christening of the commanding eminence on which the house and grounds are located "Columbia Hill," and the formal opening of Master John Daggett's new tennis court.

So numerous and so delightful are the events that round out each social season here that ft is hard to discriminate, but if any one is deserving of special mention certainly it is the entertainment provided on this occasion by Mr. and Mrs. Daggett. The same after a most enjoyable trip.

Some Pasadena people went down to Long Beach yesterday evening on the Terminal road's special train to hear the closing Chautauqua exercises.

The business men on Colorado street near Fair Oaks avenue, are looking with stuffed thigh noon and keeps it up until 4 o'clock.

any one is deserving of special mention certainly it is the entertainment provided on this occasion by Mr. and Mrs. Daggett. The spacious lawn that slopes to the northward from the house was dotted with tables and carpeted with rugs. Here and there a flag added color and brilliancy to the scene. Above the main entrance was suspended a huge piece of bunting, while the tennis court, which is located on the west side of the grounds, was fairly abiaze with the national tri-colors, all of which was eminently appropriate to the patriotic title that was later bestowed upon the place. By 3 o'clock a number of the younger guests had arrived to participate in the opening games on the new court; which is one of the best in town and beautifully situated. The entry list was so large that the events had to be limited to mixed doubles, and even then there was not sufficient time to bring the contests to a close. As a result of the draw the contesting teams were made up as follows; Mr. Picher and Miss Margaret Greble. Mr.

As a result of the draw the contesting teams were made up as follows; Mr. Picher and Miss Margaret Greble, Mr. Roche and Miss Louise Hugus, Mr. Hovey and Miss Blossom Vallette, Mr. McGlivray and Miss Marie Markham, Mr. Daggett and Miss Marie Markham, Mr. Daggett and Miss Tracy Cloud, Mr. Coleman and Miss Lulu Holbrook, Mr. Rowan and Miss Alice Markham, Mr. Hull and Miss Nettle Hugus, Mr. Craig and Miss Lulu Conger. Short sets were played, and some of the contests proved quite exciting, the majority of the players proving themselves adepts at the game. Here are the scores: McGlivray and partner beat Daggett and partner, 4-3, 4-2; Rowan and partner beat Coleman and partner, 4-0, 3-4, 4-0; Roche and partner beat Picher and partner, 4-2, 4-1; McGlivray and partner beat Hovey and partner.

rray and partner beat Hovey and partner, 4-1.

In the match, between Hull and partner and Craig and partner the former team won the first set, 4-1, and their opponents won the second set by the same score.

The games lasted until 6, o'clock, by which time the other guests had assembled about the court and manifested a keen interest in the contests. Adjournment was soon after made to the lawn where elaborate refreshments were served. The numerous guests—the laddes for the most part attired in light colored gowns—as they arranged themselves in groups here and there, combined with the charming surroundings and perfect atmospheric conditions, in forming a picture that will ever be remembered by all who were pleased to witness it. In the center of a large table, on which were spread the edibles, was a birthday cake surrounded by sixteen can cles, which was cut at the proper time with due formalities.

At 7:30 o'clock all adjourned to the

At 7:30 o'clock all adjourned to the house, where the next three hours were quickly whiled away in dancing to the inspiring strains of music as furnished by Brockway's orchestra.

The programmes were made to imitate a tennis racquet, on one side of which was written 'Columbia Hill, July 28, 1882," while the reverse side contained the order of dances.

The christening of Columbia Hill, the opening of Columbia tennis court and Miss Ruth Daggett's sixteenth birthday will always recall pleasant memories to all those who enjoyed the hospitality of the popular host and hostess.

The Terminal road managers have for some time past been casting a knowing eye in the direction of the La Canada Valley, in the direction of the La Cañada Valley, northwest of Pasadena. The inhabitants of this fertile region, it is understood, are eager to see the from horse steam their way, hence they have signified their will-ingness to make it easy for the company in the matter of right-of-way, etc. It is stated also in this connection that the railroad people are looking out for a right-of-way across the arroyo near Pertlis Gate. This obtained, a short detour from the Altadena branch will take the read into the Cañada Valley, near the western end of which is branch will take the read into the Canada Valley, near the western end of which is Glendale, the terminus of another branch of the same road. A circuit thus completed between Los Angeles, Pasadena; La Cañada and Glendale, would serve as profitable to the railroad as it would be adventageous to the new country thus opened up, which is about the most productive in this section of the State.

THE DANGERS OF LEAP YEAR. This being leap year, a popular young lady of town has had the audacity to propose to two popular young men. Of course this made trouble, and as both the "proposees," as it were, possess sanguinary dispositions, their friends took pains to see that the matter should be settled in a manner no more dangerous than a match at tennis. The contest came off yesterday and the elder of the two won, and now the young lady is wondering whether she didn't make a mistake in proposing to

A Sham Battle Creates Much Excitement.

Notes and News.

The peaceful slumbers of the campers were again disturbed as the early hours of Wednesday drew near. The attack was not imaginary this time, but real. Co. D had determined to give the old vets a surprise and capture their solitary cannon. Capt. Black gave twenty rounds of blank cartridges to each man and marched in a roundabout way to the plaza, hoping to capture the camp by surprise, but alert sentries gave the alarm and a lively fusilade of musketry followed. The stillness of midnight was harshly broken by the rapid discharges, echos of the cannon, bugle calls and yells, and every tent was soon emptied. The long roll sounded and captains called for their men to fall in line. The vets advanced, trained their cannon on the enemy, discharged it, but before they could estimate the fearful loss among the attacking party, they heard a fresh outbreak of musketry in their rear. It seemed for a moment as if the whole camp would be captured; many veterans trembled and some even sought refuge in the trees. Capts. Dill, Hobart and Mudge bravely stood by their posts through the thickest of the fight, and with a few tried and true braves retreated with the cannon to the secrecy of a tent. The cannon was hardly safe inside when a bold National Guardsman attempted to pull it out under the back of the canvas. The audacious youth was soon captured, and amid yells and shouts ordered strung, up as a spy to the nearest tree. Another poor captive was just then brought in and taken to the fountain, but before he could be ducked Co. D came to the rescue with a grand charge, and—were captured bodily by the cild vets. The captives were arranged in a row and given a number of stirring speeches by the members of the G.A.R., full of patriotism and praise for the National Guard of California.

This was one of the most exciting and in teresting incidents of the encampment, and those who had returned home surely missed a treat.

Twenty-four new schoolhouses have been constructed during the year, providing all of the school districts of the county except three with ample, and in many instances elegant school accommodations. The year has been marked by unusual activity in the matter of constructing school buildings. Two High school buildings have begun operation under the City and Union District High School Law. In one of these four teachers will be employed and in the other three. The past year has seen the inauguration of a movement that has attracted wide-spread attention throughout this 000. ration of a movement that has attracted wide-spread attention throughout this country and in Europe—the mind-chart system, worked out and first introduced here by Alex E. Frye, City Superintendent of Schools. By means of it teachers have made a special study of the characteristics of mental state of the children, to the end that points wherein they may be mentally weak may be readily discerned and the necessary steps taken to strengthen them in that particular The system has been found to work exceedingly well, and promotions in classes have been made upon the recommendation of teachers, based upon the story told by the mind charts.

The Cool Weather Has Injured the Corn and Bean Crop.

armers are Looking Forward to High Prices for Their Produce-An Extended Review of the Crops Around Santa Barbara.

The late cool weather and fogs have been very favorable for the corn and bean crops. In moist land or land which has been cultivated in beans for years, that crop in places will be fairly good. In mew fields or fields which have been farmed in barley, the bean crop will be light, in some places an entire failure. Corn which looked well an entire failure. Corn which looked well up to the time of putting out tassels and earling has, in many places, fired at the roots for lack of sumcient moisture, and fields which promised on abundant yield a few weeks ago will now make nothing. This is the case both in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties. The corn crop will be very light, many places failing entirely. The barley crop is also very poor, turning out even less than expected, now since threshing has begun. If this part of the State is a fair criterion to judge by, farmers will certainly get a good price for their products.

In the Los Posas and Simi Valleys in Ventura county, both heavy producers of barley, the yield will be little if any more than one-third of last year. A. B. Smith & Co., on the Los Posas, last year had 40,000 sacks of superior quality; this year they do not expect, from the way it is turning out since they have begun threshing, more than 15,000, or about one third that of last year.

R. W. Poindexter, in the Little Simi, told his his men to sack 3500 sacks then fill the granaries and sack the balance. When he

John Hughes, on the Little Simi, although his crop is one of the best, will not go more than one-half of last year.

N. B. Carnet, in the lower end of Big Simi, from 600 acres got 1990 sacks.

C. B. McCoy, in the upper end of the Simi, has the best crop up there. He is not through threshing, but thinks he will have 8000 sacks from 1500 acres. Last year in yielded 2288 sacks, this year he gran weighed less than 100 pounds to the sack; last year it went from 116 to 120 pounds. Mr. Bownadt has threshed 805 sacks from land which last year yielded 3500 sacks.

Railroad Item Confirmed—General, Local and Personal

Everybody hereabouts would be glad bearn that the Santa Fé company had really decided to build a new pas enger station in this city, but the improvement has been promised so long that only "seeing is believing." Mr. Manuel, during his recent visit here was convinced of the need of a new depot, but, as a high official of the Santa Fé lines said yesterday he is not convinced that the company has the money to spend for it. No definite in-formation on the subject is known by any one here unless it is that the stone, which is piled on the supposed site of the new depot, does not belong to the railroad company at all, and conse-quently that point of circumstantial evidence is sadly at fault.

MRS. DODSON'S DEATH. Coroner Weldon Had an Unpleasant Duty

Coroner Weldon went out to Downey yesterday to investigate the matter of the death of Mrs. Dodson, the old woman who was struck by the Southern California that was destroyed by fire. The writer does not know the name of the city, and as there is not a city of that kind in this State he has probably forgotten the name of the State also.

The Keystone Citizen Soldiery. [New York Press.]

The State of Pennsylvania deserves to be congratulated on the admirable discipline and efficiency of her National Guard. The promptness with which citizen soldiery turned from their ordinary avocations to assume military functions, and the intelligence and fidelity with which they have carried out the praise. It is manifest that, whether for service against foreign invasion or in putting down domestic disorder, Pennsylvania possesses a military force of which an American State may well be proud.

A few days ago Mrs. Lena Clements brought suit for divorce against her husband, Adam Clements, who conducts a wood, coal and hay yard at No. 407 Aliso street, and the result was the hor-rible death of the defendant by a suicide's hand at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when he blew his brains out in the rear of his place of business.

Day before yesterday Clements, who is worth $7000 or $8000, was ordered to pay into court to defray court costs and attorneys' fees $800 and $50 a month alimony while the case is pend-

It is supposed that this so worked on Clements's mind that he decided to take his own life. He secured an English bulldog pistol yesterday at noon, and after writing the following note, which was found on his person, he made his way to a shed in the rear of his place of business and was not again seen silve: alive: "July the 28

ANOTHER VETO.

Mayor Hazard is Opposed to an Ordi-nance Against Trade. Yesterday the following veto mes-sage from the Mayor's office was sent to the City Council:

"I return without my approval the ordinance prohibiting the erection of planing mills or other steam mills in the city outside of fire district No. 1, unless petition therefor is signed by three-fourths of the property in the block. Ordinances like this in restraint of trade should be exacted only in extreme cases. One's neigh-bors should not have it in their power te prevent the use of one's own property in a legitimate manner, such as the erty in a legitimate manner, such as the erection of a planing mill.

"I prefer the enactment of rules which would encourage the erection in our midst of all kinds of industries, and if it becomes necessary to regulate them let us not vest the power in the hands of one's neighbors, who can arbitrarily prevent one from engaging in this business altogether, without assigning any reason whatever therefor."

Progressive Merchandising!

OGRESSIVE Merchandising is best attested when due attention is paid to the wants of your patrons; when you are able to supply their needs, and when you can make their buying a source of pleasure instead of hard work by reason of getting all their wants under one roof, under one management. In aiming to cater to the wishes of our patrons and procuring for them everything at right prices is what we call progression. The old time tweedle twaddle about conflicting with the clothler, the baker or the candlestick maker is a thing of the past; it's all wornout talk except in some cases of a few isolated and narrow gauge merchants who keep harping on this one string because they think it will please a few. We are not laboring for the few, its for the many The crowds, the multitudes, come to our stores to trade; we can't do business enough with the few, we must have the crowds to keep this gigantic clockwork of business on the constant and ceaseless go.
